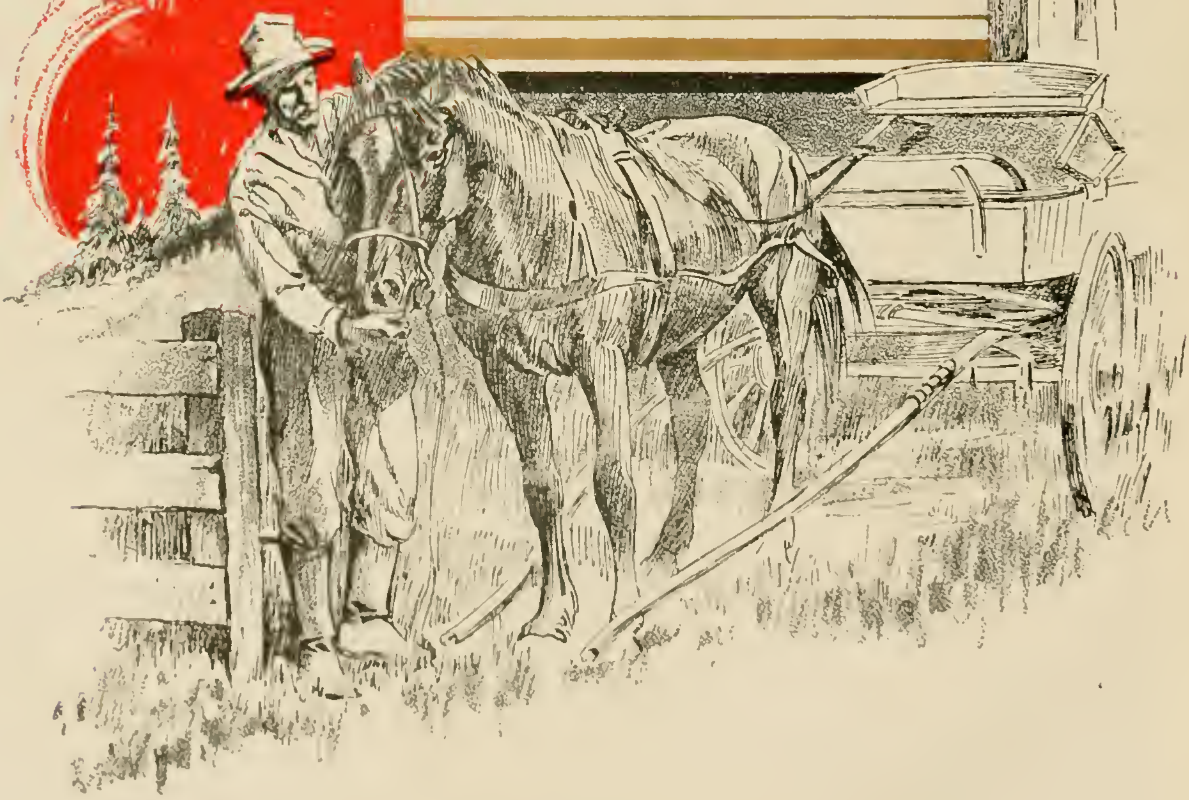
FOREWORD

THE AIM of this book is to stand as a tribute to the courage and prowess of our forefathers, the pioneers of this state. The early mountaineers were of a physical type now almost gone from our midst, yet their hardy pioneering spirit lives on with us forever, in our state, and in our school.



DEDICATION

To
Judge Isaac G. Lazelle
this edition of the Monticola is respectfully dedicated.

TO JUDGE ISAAC G. LAZELLE this edition of the Monticola is respectfully dedicated. Judge Lazelle was born in Monongalia County, W. Va., May 10, 1862. Upon finishing his early education in the schools of his home county, he entered West Virginia University in 1879, receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1883, and his Bachelor of Laws in 1884. In 1886 he also received the degree of Master of Arts from the same institution.

For a short time after leaving college Judge Lazelle went into educational work, but in 1889 he opened his law office in Morgantown where he engaged in active practice until 1921 when he was elevated to the position of Judge of the Circuit Court of the Seventeenth Judicial Circuit of West Virginia.

Judge Lazelle is well known for his outstanding activity in the development and growth of his home city. In 1894 he served as Mayor of Morgantown for a year, having been appointed to fill a vacancy. He was the first president of the Monongalia County Bar Association, and at the present time is also a member of the West Virginia State, and the American Bar Associations.

OUR TYPICAL FRESHMAN

Freshman Class History

How vividly we can recall our first feelings of confusion, dismay, and awe, as during Freshman week, we made our bow on the campus of West Virginia University. As we were led meekly around by the upper classmen, whose duty it was to introduce us to our new environment, we were overcome by the newness and strangeness of our surroundings. Everything was different in some degree from our imaginary picturings of it. Instead of the typical old "absent minded professors" that we had expected, we met modern, pleasant, highly alert men whom we found ready to help us in every possible way. Where were all the collegiate cars, Oxford bags, blazer jackets, and ferocious upper classmen that we had read about. We found that we had left them all back in high school.

On the first evening after the upper classmen had returned to school we had our first class mix. Of course there were a few members of the Freshman class there too. I counted ten of them scattered among the Sophs, Juniors, and Seniors, who all turned out to give the Freshman girls a big rush. But then what could you expect. After all we were only Freshmen, and were soon to learn that the upper classmen always have precedence (maybe).

As we went through the year we found that Freshman rules were not nearly as bad as they had been painted. In fact they were almost a thing of the past. Somehow we couldn't help regretting that here was one element of college life that we were to miss. Perhaps we are better off without Freshman rules, but I believe that we would have enjoyed the year more if they had been a little more strictly enforced.

FEATURES

SOCIETY

FIRST UNIVERSITY DANCE

Junior Prom Queen

Last year was reinstated a custom which had not for several years been observed on our campus, the crowning of the Junior Prom Queen.

The Junior Prom has for several years been one of the major social events of the University season. In past years it had been a custom each year to choose one of the most active and beautiful of the Junior Class to be thusly honored, but this custom was discontinued in 1924, not to be revived until 1930, when Miss Frances Ebeling of Wheeling was crowned as queen.

This year a crowd of about two hundred couples witnessed the crowning of Miss Annette Wiley of Charleston. Miss Wiley is a very popular and active member of the Junior class. In 1930 she was chosen regimental sponsor of the R. O. T. C. corps, and was chosen one of the campus beauties. She is a member of several campus organizations, including Pi Beta Phi, Beta Pi Theta, and Dramatic Club. In the latter organization's production of the play "Holiday", she was given one of the leading roles.

The crowning ceremony took place during the intermission of the dance. John Doyle, chairman of the Junior Prom committee, presented Miss Wiley to President Turner, who designated her Queen of the Junior Prom.

Miss Wiley's attendants were:

Margaret Straley, Ripley.
Mozella Johnson, Fairmont.
Harriet Davis, Charleston.
Harriet Havener, Morgantown.
Nancy Hogg, Point Pleasant.
Sue Proctor, Ravenswood.
Phyllis Buck, Sistersville.
Dorothy Baker, Grafton.

MISS ANNETTE WILEY

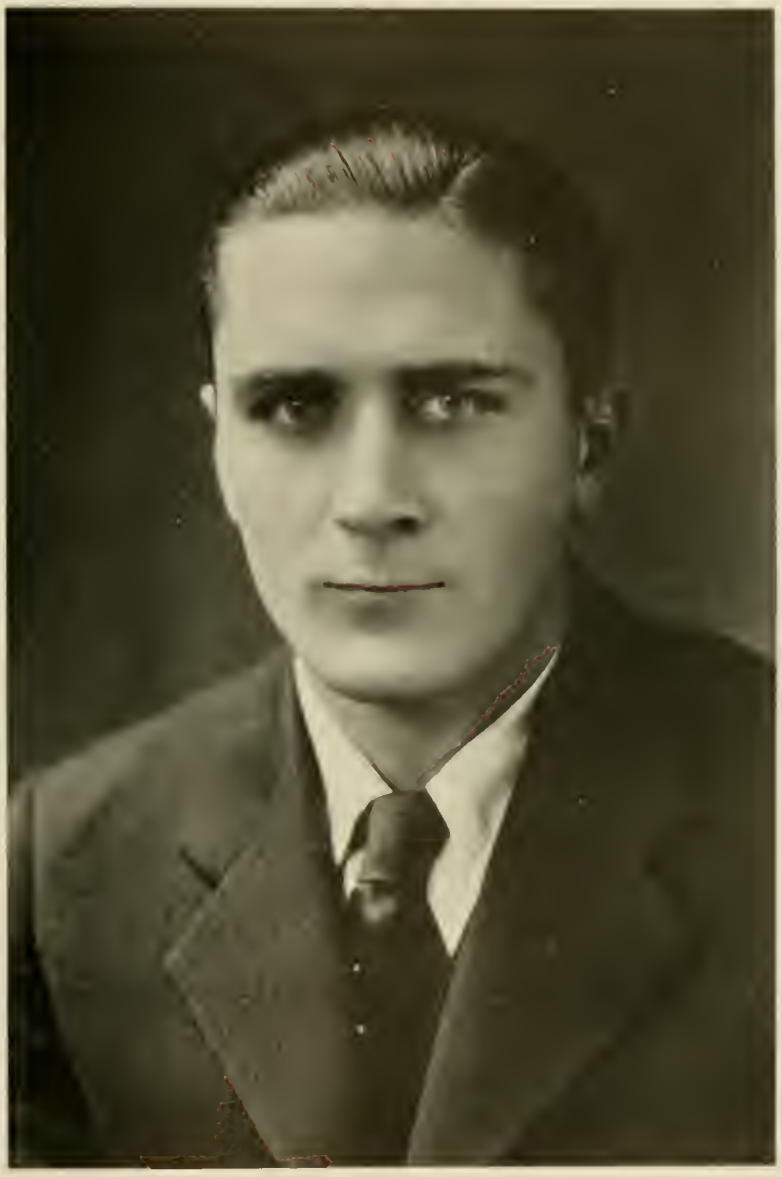
THE MOUNTAINEER

Each year it has been a tradition of the West Virginia Student body to select one of its members as the "Mountaineer". This is the highest honor that can be bestowed upon any student, since the person so honored is chosen upon a basis of personal qualifications, loyalty to mountaineer traditions, and service to the school.

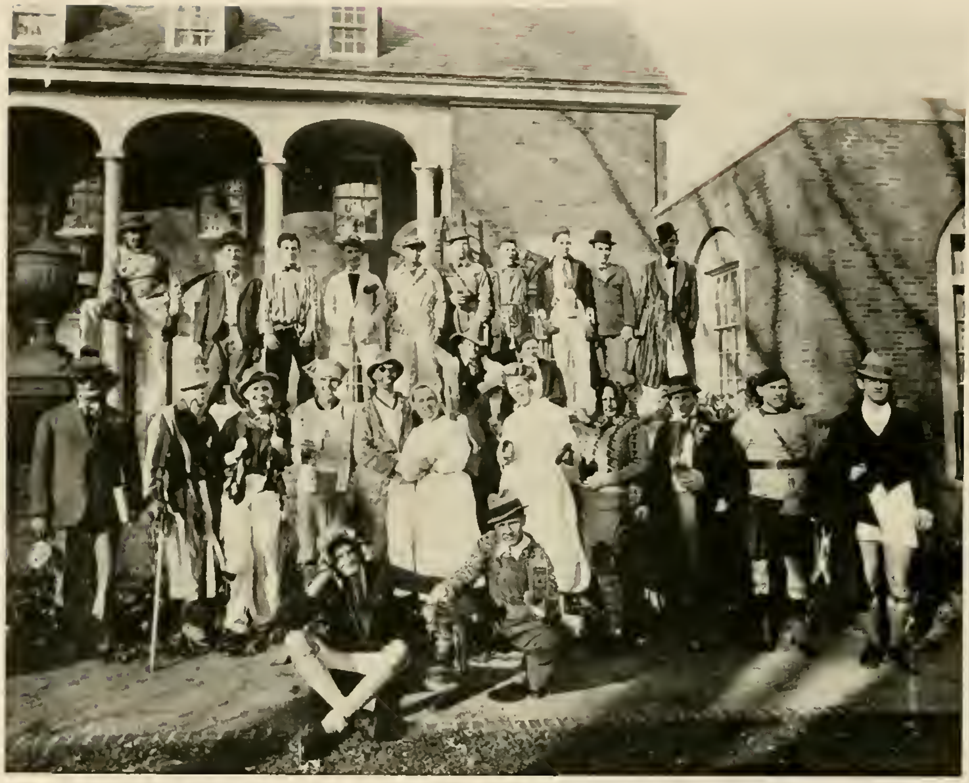
Nelson Lang of Cameron was the member of the Senior class so honored this year, and the Monticola feels that none was better qualified. During Nelson's four years on the campus he has been one of the most active and popular students in the University. His energies have been divided among all lines of activity.

He began his activities in the University by going out for Freshman football. He secured a berth on the team as end, and continued his playing through three years on the varsity, being considered as one of the most valuable men on the team. But his activities did not stop with sports. In military he showed such ability that he attained in 1930-1931 the ranking of Cadet Colonel of the R. O. T. C., the highest ranking office in the cadet corps. At the same time he was active in many campus organizations including Kappa Sigma fraternity, Mountain, Fi Bater Capper, Varsity Club, Scabbard and Blade, and Blackguard Fusiliers.

In 1930 and 1931 he was a member of the mountaineer week team sent out each year to travel throughout the state making addresses before the various high schools of West Virginia. As a recognition of his many services to the University the students in 1930 elected him to the presidency of the Student Council, and in 1931 his career was climaxed by his selection as "Mountaineer."



NELSON LANG



FREAK DAY

One of the "old Spanish customs", long dear to the hearts of the students and abhorrent to the hearts of the faculty, is freak day. On this day all the preps of Torch and Serpent, Sophomore organization, are required to turn out for the day in freak costumes, ranging from fierce pirates to blushing maidens. The group of freaks always makes it a point of honor to attend Convocation, much to the joy of the bored Frosh therein assembled and to the dismay of Dr. Armstrong.

In spite of the disruption of classes, Convocation, and the general serenity of the campus, the "Monticola" sincerely wishes that this custom may long continue.

Introducing to the Student Body of W. V. U.
Our New Coach

EARL "GREASY" NEALE

On December 2, 1930, the University students and sport fans all over the state, were stunned by the sudden announcement of the resignation of head coach Ira Rodgers and the appointment of Earl "Greasy" Neale to be the future pilot of W. V. U.'s football destiny. The announcement came so suddenly that the reaction of sport followers was for a time uncertain. However this feeling of uncertainty was soon converted to one of jubilation at having obtained so capable a man. "Greasy's" record as athlete and coach shows him to be one truly worthy of the honor and confidence accorded him. During seventeen years of coaching at Muskingum, West Virginia Wesleyan, Marietta College, Washington & Jefferson, and the University of Virginia, he has won over eighty per cent of his games. Even at the University of Virginia, where his teams were handicapped by the strictness of the eligibility rules in comparison with those of rival teams, "Greasy's" teams won twenty-eight games, lost twenty-one, and tied 5, in the six years of his stay there. Such a record proves him to be a coach worthy of our confidence and loyal support.

Immediately upon the new coach's arrival in our midst, he began a tour of the high schools of the state, making speeches, talking to the high school athletes and coaches, and, in short, doing everything in his power to push forward a program of "West Virginia athletes for West Virginia University". At a banquet of all the football men, and many of the campus leaders, he delivered an address which immediately won over to his loyal support every man present. His colorful, aggressive personality has done much in every school in which he has coached to arouse school spirit and athletic interest. His specialty in football, whether intentionally or not, has always been the spectacular, his teams showing that colorful, smooth-working, thrilling type of action so conducive to the arousing of enthusiasm and interest among the fans.

The Monticola wishes to take this opportunity to extend the heartiest congratulations, and most cordial welcome from the members of the student body of W. V. U. to our new coach, "Greasy" Neale.

A FIVE HUNDRED PER CENT season, with five victories and as many defeats, was the result of the football campaign of the Varsity squad in the fall of 1930 under the direction of Ira Errett Rodgers '20. With the concluding game of the season, that with Oregon State College on Soldier Field, Chicago, Thanksgiving Day, Rodgers relinquished his position of head coach and completed a six-year tenure of office. His resignation was accepted by the Athletic Board of Control on Dec. 1st., and Earle ("Greasy") Neale, former West Virginia Wesleyan College athlete and later head coach at Wesleyan, Marietta College, Washington and Jefferson College and the University of Virginia, was selected by the athletic board and approved by President John Roscoe Turner to succeed Rodgers.

The new coach will have a good nucleus to build the 1931 eleven from, despite the loss of Capt. Walter ("Red") Gordon, guard; Lawrence Plaster, center; Gene Joseph and Edwin Howard, ends; Edwin Bartrug, halfback; and Francis ("Tarzan") Glenn, fullback.

In view of the fact that the varsity of the past fall not only principally depended upon sophomores for reserves, but also included as many as five or six first-year eligibles in the starting lineups, the record of fifty-fifty was considered "all that could be expected" by the University officials.

In addition to having good hold-overs from the past fall in Wilbur Sortet, Bob Hamilton, Billy Karr and Earl Sprouse, ends; Fred Schweitzer, Paul Martin, Louis Ferrara, Loyal Mackey and Frank Lough, tackles; Ike Lewis, Leland Brown, James Copeman, Homer Fizer and Charles Zirbs, guards; Floyd Schwartzwalder, Carl White and Dick Mentzer, centers; Jake Sebulsky, Johnny Doyle, Bill Parriott, Morris Drobeck, Homer White, Harry Marker, Leo Dotson and Andy Brawley, back, there will be a cluster of fair boys moving up from Tallman's freshman team, including: Eddison Rine, Ray Engler, Ross McCracken and Bill Klug, ends; Charles Anderson, Frank Billotta, Warren Bodkins and John Sowers, tackles; Wilbur Lyons and Tony Forte, guards; Gene Wright and Frank Belota, centers; and Douglas Stone, Joe Mazzei, Frank Abruzzino, Frank Harrison, and Tom Covey and Joe Lepera, backs.

The 1931 schedule for the first Neale-coached Mountaineer eleven will be:

Sept. 26—Duquesne University, Morgantown
Oct. 3—Fordham University, Polo Grounds, New York City
Oct. 10—University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Oct. 17—Washington and Lee University, Charleston, W. Va.
Oct. 24—University of Detroit, Detroit, Mich.

WEST VIRGINIA 7; DUQUESNE

The varsity made its debut before the largest crowd that had ever witnessed a West Virginia team in action when the Mountaineers trimmed Elmer Layden's Duquesne University eleven, 7-0 at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh. Rodgers' boys were a little ragged, both offensively and defensively, but no more than could have been expected of a team which had just eight days of practice and which was playing its first night game. The winning touchdown was scored late in the second quarter on a 29-yard drive which followed Jake Sebulsky's interception of a Duquesne pass and his subsequent run to the "Dukes' " 29-yard line. A 16-yard pass from Brawley to Parriott, and two line thrusts by Brawley and Dotson put the ball on the 3-yard line and Parriott skidded off tackle for the touchdown. Parriott also added the extra point from placement with Brawley holding the ball. It is significant to note that the entire 29-yards were "eaten up" by a trio of sophomores, and Sebulsky, a junior, who was playing his first game at quarterback. On the otherhand, Duquesne had a veteran team which had tied West Virginia 7-7 in 1929.

West Virginia threatened on two other occasions, but the "Dukes" got no farther than the Mountaineer 18-yard line and only once to that point.

WEST VIRGINA 26; W. VA. WESLEYAN 0

In its home opener with West Virginia Wesleyan college, the Mountaineer eleven used a powerful running attack and a diversified passing game to defeat the Bobcats 26-0. The first touchdown was scored on a pass which gained 29 yards and terminated a 53-yard march. It was a heave from Bartrug to Joseph, the latter scoring the touchdown. Bartrug missed the try for point from placement. There was no scoring in the second quarter, but in the third period the Mountaineers added two touchdowns and both extra points. The second counter resulted after a 44-yard uninterrupted march which was marked by Doyle going over for the last yard. Shortly afterward Doyle threw a long pass to Sortet, and the latter went over for the touchdown for a net gain of 32 yards. Bartrug added both extra points from placement.

Starting on the Wesleyan 45-yard line the Mountaineers put on another march at the start of the fourth period, featured by a 22-yard run off tackle by "Tarzan" Glenn, which placed the ball on the Bobcat 10-yard stripe. After two plays Parriott went over tackle for the last yard, but he missed the try for extra point from placement.

A team of substitutes finished for the Varsity and more than he'd Wesleyan even.

WEST VIRGINIA 0; PITT 16

West Virginia ran into a Pitt team which possessed another powerful line and the Mountaineers dropped their first game of the season to the Panthers, 16-0. The game was played on Mountaineer field, and the largest crowd that ever watched a grid battle in the stadium saw Pitt use sheer power to defeat the Varsity in the first Pitt-West Virginia game played in Morgantown since 1917.

By means of two spurts of offensive football, staged in the first and third quarters, resulting in two touchdowns and the subsequent extra points, and aided further by a safety, the Panthers battered out their 16 points.

Pitt's line paved the way for an 85-yard march in the first quarter, and repeated again in the third quarter with a march of 59 yards. Hood plunged through the line for both touchdowns and Capt Baker added both extra points.

The Pitt line also proved superior to the green West Virginia forwards on the defense and stopped the Mountaineer ground attack, while the Varsity's passing was erratic. These advantages proved sufficient for the Panthers, and not until the fourth quarter were the Mountaineers able to get into Pitt territory.

WEST VIRGINIA 33; WASHINGTON & LEE 13

As had been the case in the meeting with Duquesne in the opening game, the Mountaineers met a veteran team of Washington and Lee University Generals on Laidley Field, Charleston in the fourth struggle, but a diversified attack, built principally around the great running and passing of Johnny Doyle and Bill Parriott, and a continuation of fine end play by Wilbur Sortet and Gene Joseph, brought a second-half spurt which gave the Varsity a 33-13 triumph.

After getting off a 50-yard pass on the first play of the game to put them deep into West Virginia territory, the Generals continued their passing attack and finally put one over for 20 yards and a touchdown with not more than five minutes of the game gone.

In the second quarter, West Virginia scored its first touchdown following a 35-yard march. Parriott returned a punt 34 yards to the W. & L. 35-yard line and the Mountaineers punched the Generals' line to the one-foot mark, and Dotson made the final lunge. Parriott missed the goal from placement in a try for the extra point. The Mountaineers were on their way toward another touchdown when the half ended at 7-6 for the Generals.

Shortly after the second half opened Dotson intercepted a W. & L. pass on the Generals' 40-yard line and on the first play thereafter Doyle broke loose through tackle and galloped the intervening 40 yards to put the Mountaineers in front. Parriott missed the try for point. West Virginia took a 19-7 lead when Doyle passed to Parriott for 20 yards to end a 59-yard march a few minutes later. Parriott kicked goal. A long punt drove the Mountaineers deep in their own territory near the end of the third period and finally Wash-Lee took the ball on the West Virginia 35-yard line and rushed it over, but missed the try for point and the Mountaineer lead was only 19-13.

Parriott ran the next kickoff back 30 yards to the W. Va. 40 and after Doyle pulled off a 35-yard run the Mountaineers got to the Generals' 9-yard line, but were repulsed. They came back soon afterward and scored from the 32-yard line when Doyle passed to Bartrug and the latter ran 15 yards to score. He added the extra point to make the score 26-13. With a substitute team on the field near the close of the quarter Sebulsky intercepted a pass on the 50 and the Mountaineers rushed to the Generals' 17-yard strip. Drobeck, a sophomore halfback, was sent into the game and on the first play he rounded right end for the touchdown and Bartrug ended the scoring with another perfect placement for the extra point, making the score 33-13.

WEST VIRGINIA 0; DETROIT 23

On a cold, damp night of Oct. 17 the Mountaineers ran into a more powerful University of Detroit team than that which the year before had crushed a crippled West Virginia team 36-0. The Rodgersmen, playing with seven sophomores in the lineup, played hard football and held the Detroiters to a 3-0 lead in the first half, but the rushes of a more powerful and faster Detroit line and a quartet of swift backs who out-weighed the Mountaineer ball-toters 10 pounds to the man, got to coordinating behind the Notre Dame shift which had a hair-trigger start on every play and the West Virginians could do no better than finish on the short end at 23-0.

The Detroiters threatened in the first quarter at the start, appearing likely to march for a touchdown, but they were stopped at the 13-yard mark and had to resort to a field goal to score. Parsaca's drop-kick was true to its mark and the Titans had a 3-0 advantage as the quarter ended. West Virginia did not threaten to score in the second quarter, but neither did Detroit, so evenly did the Mountaineers keep the play.

Detroit scored twice again in the third quarter, marching 33 yards on the first series which finally was figured by O'Neill rounding right end for 7 yards. Soon afterward the Titans increased their lead to 16-0 when Berg uncorked two long runs and O'Neill again ran wide around right end from the 2-yard line to count. Parsaca missed the try for extra point but annexed the second.

West Virginia had a chance to get back into the game as the fourth quarter opened when Sebulsky intercepted a pass at midfield and raced to the Detroit 15-yard line before he was driven out of bounds, but a pass was grounded over the goal line and the Titans took the ball on their 20. A quick kick by Parsaca caught the Mountaineers napping and drove them back into their own territory. Taking the ball on their own 42-yard line the Detroiters worked their way down shortly before the game ended, aided by a 32-yard pass and O'Neill again ran right end for two yards and a touchdown. Parasaca added the extra point by drop kick.

WEST VIRGINIA 14; GEORGETOWN 7

With Eddie Bartrug in the star role, the Mountaineers scored their first victory over Georgetown since 1926 when they turned the Hoyas, 14-7 at Griffith Stadium, Washington, D. C., the night of Oct. 24.

The Varsity got off to a 7-0 lead in the first quarter, increased it to 14-0 during the third quarter and then staved off the rushes of the Hoyas in the last quarter to finish on top, 14-7.

West Virginia's first counter came on so-called "breaks" of the game. About midway during the initial quarter the Mountaineers took the ball at midfield after an exchange of punts and worked their way to the Georgetown 39-yard line, where Bartrug was forced to punt. His kick was well directed and the pigskin came down and wiggled viciously about on the two-yard line. Scalzi, Georgetown quarterback, thinking the ball would roll over the goal line, attempted to block Gene Joseph, Varsity end, who rushed down under the punt in an effort to down the ball before it went across the goal line. Scalzi accidentally ran into the ball and knocked it over the last white stripe. Floyd Schwartwalder, the Mountaineers' midget center, fell on it for a touchdown. Bartrug kicked the extra point from placement.

The Mountaineers and Hoyas battled on even terms during the second quarter, but West Virginia held the edge in the third period, having been thwarted twice within the Georgetown 10-yard line before they finally put on a 44-yard march at the start of the fourth quarter which netted what proved to be the winning touchdown. In this 44-yard drive Bartrug reeled off two substantial gains to place the ball on the 15-yard mark. After Doyle had lost 7 yards attempting to round end, Bartrug went back to the 30-yard line and threw a long pass to Sortet, who grabbed it on the 4-yard line in a scramble with two Georgetown defensive men, thus giving the Varsity a first down at that point. On the first play thereafter, Bartrug knifed through tackle for the winning touchdown, and then kicked a perfect goal from placement for the fourteenth point.

Jake Sebulsky, West Virginia quarterback, intercepted a pass soon after the Mountaineers had scored their second touchdown and got to the Georgetown 16-yard line, but the Hoyas stiffened and took the ball on their own 20-yard stripe as a Varsity pass over the goal line went wide of its mark. Georgetown then put on a pretty 80-yard march, aided by long runs and passes by the Hoyas' two Johnnies—Scalzi and Bozek—and tallied its only touchdown when Scalzi heaved a pass to Mooney over the goal line on the fourth down with five yards to go. Georgetown took the ball at mid-field with two minutes to go and attempted a passing attack, but Sebulsky intercepted another on the West Virginia 35 and raced to the Hoyas' 32 before he was downed just as the game ended.

WEST VIRGINIA 2; FORDHAM 18

The Mountaineers' seventh opponent was Fordham University, and as one New York scribe put it "The dear old Fordham Ram is still master of all he surveys, but he was hobbling a bit as he walked off the field at the Polo Grounds (in New York City on Nov. 1). He butted his way to victory over a gallant little squad from the University of West Virginia, but if there was such a thing as a moral victory it belonged to the beaten team." West Virginia, after flashing its strongest offense of the year, but being thwarted by bad breaks, lost to the Rams, 18-2. When the Mountaineers tallied their two points, Fordham's goal line had been crossed for the first time of the season.

Twenty thousand shivered through the hard-fought struggle, watching somberly as Fordham rolled up two touchdowns in the first and second quarters, and coming to life with a whoop when the Mountaineers made a glorious comeback in the third and fourth quarters. West Virginia was unable to stop the Rams in the first half, two sustained drives of 60 and 93 yards netting them touchdowns. The Rams got a smile from dame fortune in the second-touchdown dirve, when a Fordham pass on the fourth down was partially blocked by a Mountaineer, only to fall in the arms of a Ram receiver who was lying flat on his back, for a first down on the W. Va. 20.

West Virginia threatened to score three times in the third and early fourth quarter, one effort ending in an incomplete pass over the goal line and the other two terminating when passes were intercepted deep in Fordham territory. Johnny Doyle supplied most of the fireworks for the Mountaineers, with Bartrug and Dotson gaining consistently also.

The Mountaineers made the safety which broke Fordham's unscored upon record when they relinquished the ball on the six-yard mark after having missed a first down by inches. Tracey went back behind his goal line to punt, but he fumbled the pass from center and Sortet downed him.

West Virginia sent a light, inexperienced backfield, the prime asset of which was speed, into the fray as the fourth quarter began to fade, but Drobeck fumbled in midfield and Fordham recovered. The Rams capitalized on the West Virginia rookie backfield at the time and put on a forward passing drive which netted another touchdown, the scoring play having been a 30-yard pass from Fisher to Janis. West Virginia again rallied and advanced to the Fordham 20, but the game ended at that point.

WEST VIRGINIA 23; KANSAS STATE 7

After spotting "Bo" McMillan's Kansas State College outfit a seven-point lead in the first five minutes of play, the Mountaineers came back with an offense which the Kansans never effectively stopped and romped to a 23-7 victory before a slim "West Virginia Day" crowd at Morgantown, Nov. 8.

The "Aggies" scored on a 26-yard march with straight running plays, Auker going over from the 2-yard line and adding the extra point from placement. West Virginia received the subsequent kickoff and started scrimmage on her 35-yard line. On the first play, Leo Dotson, Mountaineer sophomore fullback, dashed off tackle and ran 50 yards to the "Aggie" sixteen. Five plays later Dotson went over the 4-yard line. Neither team showed much in the second quarter, and the half-time period was reached with the score knotted at 7—all.

In the third period the Mountaineers took the ball at midfield, advanced to the "Aggie" 21 without much difficulty and Doyle passed to Sortet over the goal line for the second touchdown. Soon afterward an "Aggie" punt was partially blocked and West Virginia took the ball on the Kansans 41-yard line. Bartrug ran right end on a reverse for a 28-yard gain and Doyle then skirted right end for the last 13 yards. Bartrug kicked all three extra points from placement.

WEST VIRGINIA 6; WASHINGTON & JEFFERSON 7

Living up to advance ballyhoo, the 29th meeting of the Mountaineer and the Washington and Jefferson College President on Mountaineer field was marked by a battle between two evenly matched elevens, and the 7-6 victory of Wash-Jeff is only an indication of the thriller the game proved to be.

After battling to a 0-0 deadlock in the first half, during which period the Presidents had a first-quarter edge and the Mountaineers a second-quarter margin, the real offensive broke loose in the second half.

Midway in the third quarter, Armstrong, little W. & J. halfback, returned one of Bartrug's punts 20 yards to the West Virginia 45-yard line. From this point the Presidents put on a sustained drive, featured by the plunging of "Stew" Wilson, fullback, and aided by a decided break of the game, pushed over their touchdown. The break came in the form of a fumble which ultimately proved a 13-yard gain and a first down on the W. V. 10-yard line. After three tries at the line, W. & J. was still four yards away from the goal but Wilson passed to Port for the touchdown, and the former's perfect placement put the Presidents in front, 7-0.

Near the close of the third quarter West Virginia put on a drive from the Presidents' 49-yard line. It was thwarted, however, on the 25-yard line when a pass was intercepted. The Presidents started another drive, but again they fumbled and Joseph, West Virginia end, recovered on the W. & J. 43-yard. The Mountaineers then sent Sophomore Bill Parriott in at halfback for Bartrug and he crossed the Presidents up with passes and runs inside and outside of the tackles to gain a first down on the W. & J. 32. A Wash-Jeff back interfered with Sebulsky on a pass from Parriott and the Mountaineers gained another first down on the Presidents' 23-yard line. Two line plays and a pass failed, then Pariott, from punt formation, threw another pass—far to the left—to Dotson, and the latter did some pretty side-stepping to run 18 yards and tally for the Mountaineers. Parriott's try for extra point from placement was wide and the Presidents held a one-point lead.

WEST VIRGINIA 0; OREGON STATE 12

On Thanksgiving Day morning the Mountaineers were pitted against the Oregon State College giants at Soldier Field, Chicago, in a game styled as a benefit for the Shriners' Crippled Children's hospitals. The gridiron was frozen solid and a 5-degree above zero temperature prevailed.

West Virginia was outweighed more than 10 pounds to the man, but despite this fact held the Oregonians all even in the first half and neither team scored. The Mountaineers were not able to gain an inch against the bigger Pacific Coast team, and the footing was too dangerous for the light West Virginia backs to even get started.

Oregon State gained at will in her own territory and in midfield, but her running attack was stopped dead by the Mountaineers once inside the West Virginia 30. Having had this experience in the first half the Oregonians opened up with their famed aerial game in the second half and before the third quarter was over had tallied both of their touchdowns.

Hughes missed both tries for extra points.

Looking Forward and Backward---

STADSVOLD
Coach

A desperate last-minute field goal and two successful foul throws in the last ten seconds of the final game with the University of Pittsburgh in Mountaineer Field house, kept the Varsity court quint from finishing its season with a 50-50 record. Instead, the Panthers came from behind to win the season's finale 24-22, and the West Virginia basketball summary for the season of 1931 shows nine victories and eleven defeats.

The 1931 Varsity quint, minus the star of former years, "Little Sleepy" Glenn, showed power on the offense at all times during the season, but proved less effective on the defense than most of the teams of the past four years.

Capt. Lawrence Plaster, guard, Eddie Bartrug, center, and Johnny Doyle, forward, were the veterans around whom Coach Stadsvold built his quint. Two sophomores, Wilbur Sortet, forward, and Leo Dotson, guard, worked at the other two positions most of the season, with Sigmund Weiner replacing Dotson in the last four games to play brilliantly. A lack of strong reserve talent was especially noticeable throughout the season, and this fact, more than any other, except possibly the calibre of the opposition and a difficult road trip in the middle of the season, can be pointed to as one of the reasons for several losses by decidedly close margins. No team defeated the Mountaineers by more than ten points, and only one of the Varsity victories was an overwhelming triumph for the West Virginians.

With only Plaster and Bartrug to be lost for the 1931 32 campaign, and with some of the best freshmen talent in years coming on, the Varsity court outfit is expected to be much stronger next winter.

The freshmen, coached by "Little Sleepy" Glenn, won fifteen of their twenty games, having outscored their opponents 830 to 614. The crowning performance of the season was their 56 to 34 triumph over the University of Pittsburgh plebs. In Stanley Abruzzino and Ross McCracken, forwards; Rex Pyles, center; Douglas Stone, Bill Knug and Frank Harrison, guards, the 1932 Varsity will have able talent to replace the departing players.

PLASTER
Captain 1931

W. V. U. 46; SALEM 33

With Eddie Cubbon, forward, leading the attack, and the guards, Capt. Plaster and Leo Dotson, adding substantially in the scoring, the Mountaineers opened with a 46-33 triumph over Salem College. Cubbon scored eighteen points. Salem did most of its scoring from long range, Neidecker having been the leader of the offensive.

ALLEGHENY 36; W. V. U. 29

Allegheny College's barnstorming team, sporting a pair of crack shots in Garbark and Dennison, put on a spurt in the second half and topped the Varsity in the second home game, 36-29. Cubbon again bore the brunt of the attack for the Mountaineers, accounting for fifteen of their points.

WESLEYAN 42; W. V. U. 36

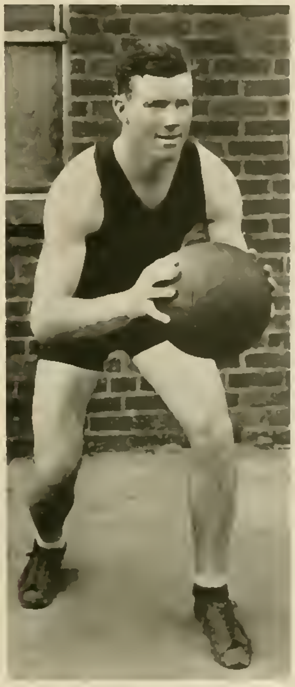
The Mountaineers could not check the accurate long distance and quick-breaking attack of the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats, led by "Gyp" Battles, as the two teams met in the Field house in the Varsity's third game, and the Methodists annexed the game 42-36, scoring 27 points in the second half. For the third consecutive game, Cubbon led the Mountaineer attack, collecting thirteen points.

W. V. U. 36; MARSHALL 22

In an effort to bolster the Varsity's defense, Coach Stadsvold used Wilbur Sortet at forward instead of Cubbon as the Mountaineers played their fourth consecutive game at home, with Marshall College as the opponent, and the results were satisfactory, the Varsity having won 36-22. Sortet led the attack, and the Varsity teamwork improved, all of the starters having contributed in the scoring. Marshall scored only eight field goals, as the Mountaineers collected sixteen.

PITT 17; W. V. U. 15

Fearing the Varsity's zone defense, and recognizing the superiority of the Mountaineers in stamina and height, the University of Pittsburgh Panthers played another of their memorable "stall" games and eked out a 17-15 victory at Pittsburgh. Pitt, breaking its long shots almost perfectly in the first few minutes of the game, ran out to a lead and played a waiting game to hold a 7-2 margin at half-time. In the second half the Varsity forced play and outscored the Panthers 13-10, but finished two points shy.



DOYLE
Captain-elect for 1932

W. V. U. 35; GENEVA 26

Johnny Doyle, Sortet and Bartrug, working a fast passing offense, and being supported strongly in the rear flank by Capt. Plaster and Dotson, led all the way to defeat Geneva College 35-26 as the Varsity returned home. Doyle and Bartrug each scored eleven points. Capt. Montgomery's superior goaling kept Geneva in the game, his sixteen points having made up the bulk of the Covenanters' scoring.

WESLEYAN 40; W. V. U. 34

"Gyp" Battles, Wesleyan's big pivot man and captain, again treated the Varsity to a lesson in basketball as the Bobcats scored a second triumph over the Mountaineers, 40-34 at Buckhannon. Battles scored nineteen points to lead the Methodists' attack. The loss of Bartrug on personal fouls with three minutes of the game remaining, and the Mountaineers within three points of the Bobcats, proved fatal to the Varsity.

BETHANY 45; W. V. U. 35

Bethany College's slick-working quint continued an undefeated march at the expense of the Varsity in the Field house in the last home game for the Mountaineers before their annual barnstorming tour, winning by a decisive spurt in the second half, 45-35. The Varsity matched the play of the Bisons in the first half and the score was knotted at 17—all at the rest period. Johnny Doyle was lost on personal fouls just at the close of the first period, and the Mountaineer defense cracked in the last half as the Bison offense, led by Rush, Lackey and Telfair started clicking. Sortet led the Varsity's attack.

BARTRUG

W. & L. 38; W. V. U. 34

Starting their annual Southern-Eastern trip, the Mountaineers lost the opener to Washington and Lee University at Huntington, 38-34, a last-half spurt turning the trick for the Generals. Jarrett's five goals in the second period put the Generals out in front, despite the great work of Doyle for the Varsity.

W. V. U. 35; GEORGETOWN 29

Swinging into the East, the Varsity, this time led by Eddie Bartrug, kept in front all the way to beat Georgetown University at Washington, D. C.

TEMPLE 37; W. V. U. 28

On the following night the Mountaineers ran into a team with a powerful five-man scoring attack, built around a giant center, and lost to Temple University at Philadelphia, 37-28. Johnny Doyle scored seventeen points to take the scoring honors, but the other Varsity men were held well in check.

W. V. U. 41; NAVY 36

Jumping into an early lead, and with all five of the starters scoring freely, the Varsity beat the U. S. Naval Academy quint at Annapolis the following afternoon, 41-36. Navy rallied in the second half as Coach Stadsvold substituted freely, but the 28-15 lead of the Mountaineers at the close of the first half was too much for the Middies to overcome.

W. V. U. 38; GEORGETOWN 22

Upon their return home the following night, the Varsity courtmen met and defeated Georgetown for the second time during the week, 38-22. The Mountaineers had the game well in hand at all stages, and Coach Stadsvold took advantage of the opportunity and substituted freely, using three full teams.

PENN STATE37; W. V. U. 27

Playing their sixth game in the space of seven days, the Mountaineers wilted in the second half and dropped a 37-27 game to Penn State at State College, Pa. Penn State had a good five-man attack which functioned well against the tired Varsity quint.

CUBBON

ARMY 49; W. V. U. 40

The Varsity entertained the U. S. Military Academy's strong team in the Field house in the first game after the long trip and had the Cadets on the run until Bartrug was lost on personal fouls in the first five minutes of the second half, and the Army ultimately won out 49-40. At the stage of the game when Bartrug went out the Mountaineers had a substantial lead, but thereafter Stecker, Kruger and the giant Epler literally rained goals through the hoop to take the lead and the game. Sortet led the Varsity offense with thirteen points.

W. V. U. 38; DUQUESNE 35

Eddie Bartrug and Johnny Doyle played the hero roles in the Varsity's 38-35 victory over Duquesne in an exciting extra-period game. Bartrug's foul in the closing minute knotted the count at 29—all and Doyle's two goals and a foul gave the Mountaineers the necessary margin in the extra period. Duquesne kept in the game through the fine foul shooting of its little captain, Stephens, who goaled nine times in eleven tries from the gift line.

W. V. U. 30; W. & J. 23

Washington and Jefferson College's five was no match for the Varsity on the small Wash-Jeff floor at Washington, Pa., the next week-end and the Varsity annexed an easy 30-23 game with two full teams seeing action.

CARNEGIE TECH 35; W. V. U. 26

The Mountaineers played ragged ball in their only game of the season with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh, and lost to the Tartans 35-26. Failure to stop the sensational shooting of Capt. Nease of the Plaid five proved costly, the Tech leader having scored fourteen points to keep his team continuously in the lead.

W. V. U. 33; W. & J. 15

Loose basketball, tinged by evidence of staleness, marked the second victory over Washington and Jefferson in the return game at Morgantown, as the Varsity won, 33-15 Coach Stadsvold again used three full teams.

PITT 24; W. V. U. 22

"Shooting everything" on their last game of the season, the Mountaineers gambled and lost to the University of Pittsburgh at the Field house in a return game. After leading from the gun and forcing Pitt to play ball all the way, the Varsity succumbed in the last minute and lost to the Panthers 24-22. Eddie Baker's sensational goal from the side of the court tied the score at 22—all in the last minute and Lawry's two successful fouls ten seconds before the gun cracked gave Pitt her victory.

W. V. U. 50; WAYNESBURG 0

The Mountaineer matmen opened with a decisive victory over Waynesburg College at Waynesburg, Pa., the Yellow Jackets having failed to score as the Varsity won 50-0. Herod and Slutsky, 118-pounders, Fletcher, 126-pounder, Wotring, 135-pounder, Smith, 145-pounder, all having gained victories by time margins, while Roth, 135-pounder, Hando, 145-pounder, Johnston, 155-pounder, Higgins and Fizer, 165-pounders, Lewis, 175-pounder, and Martin, heavyweight, were victorious by falls.

HARRICK
Coach

W. V. U. 29; WAYNESBURG 3

In a return match at the Field house, the Varsity again defeated Waynesburg, this time 29-3. Herod 118, Fletcher 126, Wotring, 135, having won decisions, while Hando 145, Schwartzwalder 155, Fizer 165, and Lewis 175, gained falls. Martin was defeated in an overtime period.

MICHIGAN 27; W. V. U. 5

Jack Fletcher 126-pounder, was the only Varsity man to win as the Mountaineers lost to the University of Michigan 27-5 at Ann Arbor, Mich., in the third match. Herod 118, Hando 145, and Schweitzer, heavyweight, were thrown, while Wotring 135, Schwartzwalder 155, and Fizer 165, lost by time advantages.

INDIANA 19; W. V. U. 13

After the first four Indiana University grapplers had defeated the Varsity representatives to give the Hoosiers a big lead, the Mountaineers rallied, but too late, and the Indianians copped the fourth match of the season at the Field house, 19-13. Herod 118, Fletcher 126, Wotring 135, all lost by time margins to their opponents, while Hando 145, and Fizer 165, were thrown. Schwartzwalder 155, threw his opponent in the most exciting bout of the year, while Lewis 175, gained a time advantage victory over his opponent in an extra period. Schweitzer threw his opponent in the heavyweight bout.

MEYERS
Captain

PENN STATE 27; W. V. U. 5

Penn State's grapplers handed the Varsity its third consecutive loss at State College, Pa., 27-5, in the next match for the Mountaineers. Ike Lewi's victory by a fall in the 175-pound bout kept the Mountaineers from being shut-out. Capt. Paul Meyers, 145-pounder, wrestled in his first bout of the year after having been out with injuries, and was defeated by a time margin.,Fletcher 126, Wotring 155, Schwartzwalder 155, and Fizer 165, lost time decisions also, while Sharpe 118, and Schweitzer, heavyweight, were thrown by their State opponents.

NORTHWESTERN 23; W. V. U. 15

Northwestern University's four grappling stars in the heavier weights rallied to give the "Big Ten" Wildcats a 23-15 victory over the Varsity at the Field house in the sixth match of the season. The meet was marred by an injury to Floyd Schwartzwalder which cost him his bout and necessitated his retirement for the season. Herod 118, and Fletcher 126, threw their opponents to send the Mountaineers off to a lead. Roth 135, lost a decision to his opponent, and then Capt. Meyers 145, increased the Varsity's lead by throwing his foe. Schwartzwalder, after fighting his opponent on even terms for more than half of the 155-pound bout, was injured and had to default. Then the next three Mountaineer representatives were thrown—Fizer 165, Lewis 175, and Martin heavyweight—and the Wildcats increased their point total to twenty-three.

NAVY 33; W. V. U. 3

The husky Midshipmen of the U. S. Naval Academy handed the Varsity its worst licking of the year at Annapolis in the next meet, winning by a margin of 33-3. Capt. Meyers won his 145-pound bout with a time advantage to keep his team from being "whitewashed." Herod, 118, Worting, 135, Conner, 155, Higgins, 165, Lewis, 175, and Schweitzer, heavyweight, were thrown, and Fletcher, 126, lost his bout by a narrow time margin.

LEWIS
Captain-elect for 1932

W. V. U. 22; OHIO U. 8

After dropping five straight matches, the Mountaineers returned to the Field house arena to defeat Ohio University 22-8. Victories by time advantages for Fletcher 126, Wotring 135, Johnston 155, and Schweitzer, heavyweight, and triumphs by falls for Capt. Meyers 145, and Lewis 175, enabled the Varsity to score its twenty-two points. Sharpe 118, lost by a time margin, while Mackey 165, was thrown in an extra-period bout.

W. V. U. 22; WESTERN RESERVE 10

Higgins 165, and Schweitzer, heavyweight, were the only Varsity men to lose as the Mountaineers closed season with a 22-10 victory over Western Reserve University at Cleveland, Ohio. Herod 118, Fletcher 126, Wotring 135, Hando 155, all won by time advantages, while Capt. Meyers 145, and Lewis 175, threw their opponents.

COACH VACHERESSE

W. V. U. 6½; CARNEGIE TECH ½

The Mountaineers started their second year of boxing with a 6½ to ½ victory over Carnegie Tech's new team in the Field house on January 15. Tech defaulted in the 115-pound class. Fisher 135, was awarded the referee's decision. Capt. Stunkard 145, was awarded the referee's decision. Latham 160, scored a technical knockout. Karr fought Ducanis, the Tech captain, to a draw, and Hawkins scored a technical knockout over his opponent. Jimmy Bronson, nationally known boxing authority from New York, noted as Gene Tunney's chief second, refereed the match.

PENN STATE 4; W. V. U. 3

Penn State College's intercollegiate champions had difficulty in disposing of the Varsity in the next match at State College, Pa. The Penn State mitmen won the first four bouts, but the Varsity won the last three. Husten 115, lost by a technical knockout. Owen Hamilton lost the referee's decision, as did Fisher 135, and Capt. Stunkard 145. Stunkard fought Lewis, 1930 intercollegiate champion, and stayed with him the full three rounds, losing by the narrowest of margins. Latham 160, was awarded the referee's decision; Bill Karr 175, won by a technical knockout, and Hawkins, heavyweight, put his man away in the first round.

ARMY 4½; W. V. U. 2½

The U. S. Military Academy sluggers proved a shade better than the Varsity, in a match at West Point the week after the Penn State battle, and the Cadets won out 4½ to 2½. Heatherman 115, and Fisher 125, lost on decisions. Hesse 135, lost by a technical knockout, and then Capt. Stunkard fought his man to a draw in the 145-pound bout. Latham 160, was awarded the referee's decision, but Karr 175, was shaded by his Cadet opponent, and lost the decision. Hawkins made very quick work of his opponent in the heavyweight battle, scoring a clean knockout in the first round.

STUNKARD
Captain, 1931

NAVY 6; W. V. U. 1

"Spike" Webb's great team at the United States Naval Academy, later to become intercollegiate champions, handed the Mountaineers their worst defeat of the season in the fourth match of the season at Annapolis, winning by a 6 to 1 count. Hawkins, being knocked out in the second round, lost his only bout of the season, and his second in two years of competition. The Varsity's point was scored as Capt. Stunkard, 145, and Karr, 175, earned draws in their bouts. Heatherman, 115, and Owen Hamilton, 135, lost on the referee's decision, while Fisher, 125, and Latham, 160, in addition to Hawkins, were knocked out.

W. V. U. 5; N. Y. U. 2.

The Mountaineers returned home the next week-end and adminstered a 5-2 defeat upon the New York University sluggers. N. Y. U.'s two points were scored in the 125 and 135-pound fights, as Fisher, 125, suffered a laceration over his eye and was forced to retire, while Hesse, 135, was outclassed by Capt. Slomowitz of the Violet team. Morrison, 115, started off with a technical knock-out, and Capt. Stunkard, 145, Latham, 160, and Hawkins, 175, gained the referee's decisions in three round bouts. N. Y. U. defaulted in the heavyweight class.

W. V. U. 6; CARNEGIE TECH 1

In a return match at Pittsburgh, the Varsity defeated Carnegie Tech 6-1. The Tech team was handicapped by injuries and illness and was forced to default in the 115, 145 and heavyweight classes. Fisher, 125, scored a victory by the technical knockout route. Owen Hamilton, 135, and Latham, 160, outclassed their opponents and were awarded the decisions. Karr lost to Capt. Ducanis in the 175-pound fight.

HAWKINS
Captain-elect for 1932

WESTERN MARYLAND 4½; W. V. U. 2½

"Dick Harlow, veteran Western Maryland college boxing coach brought his sluggers to the Field house, a team which later went to the finals of the inter collegiates to take the runner-up position, and defeated the Varsity 4½ to 2½. Morrison 115, and Hawkins, heavyweight, were the Varsity men to win, while Capt. Stunkard fought his man to a draw. Morrison scored a technical knockout, and Hawkins defeated the veteran Pincura in a torrid battle. Fisher 125, lost by a technical knockout, while Hesse 135, Latham 160, and Karr 175, lost by decisions.

W. V. U. 4; BUCKNELL 3

In what proved to be the most interesting home match of the year, the Mountaineers gained a 4-3 victory over Bucknell University at the Field house on March 11. Bucknell took an early lead by winning the first three bouts, but the Varsity sluggers outclassed their opponents in the last four and eked out their victory. Morrison was knocked out in the first round of the 115-pound bout, while O. Hamilton 125, and Hesse 135, lost the referee's decision. Capt. Stunkard 145, and Karr 175, were awarded the decisions by the referee, and Latham 160, and Hawkins, heavyweight, scored technical knockouts over their Bucknell opponents.

W. V. U. 7; PITT 0

West Virginia and the University of Pittsburgh opened boxing relations when Pitt's first intercollegiate team opposed the Mountaineers at the Field house on March 18 in the last match of the season. The Panthers were no match for the Varsity, and went down to defeat, 7-0. Heatherman 115, Morrison 125, Capt. Stunkard 145, and Hawkins, heavyweight, outpointed their foes, while Hesse 135, scored a victory on a technical knockout in the second round, and Latham 160, knocked out his Pitt opponent in the first round. Pitt defaulted the 175-pound class.

Cross-Country

After running up a string of seven consecutive triumphs in dual runs, the Varsity cross-country team lost its first match since the harrier sport was inaugurated on an intercollegiate basis in the fall of 1929, the defeat having been administered by the United States Naval Academy team at Annapolis on Nov. 21 in the closing event of the 1930 season.

The Mountaineers did, however, retain the tri-state and "Big Four" cross-country championships last fall by virtue of victories over Duquesne University, Geneva College and Carnegie Tech. The "Big Four" championship has been the unofficial possession of the Varsity for the last two cross-country seasons. Pitt has not been met in dual competition, but in 1929 the Mountaineers defeated Tech in a dual run and finished ahead of Pitt in a triangular meet with Ohio State as the other competitor. Last fall the Varsity was not matched with Pitt, but figured ahead of both the Panthers and Tech by defeating the latter by a wider margin than Pitt had been able to win from the Tartans. Washington and Jefferson College, the other member of the "Big Four," does not sponsor a cross-country team.

On October 4, in conjunction with the Pitt-West Virginia football game in the stadium, the Varsity harriers scored a clean sweep over Duquesne University to win 15-40. Capt. Brand, Sanders, Robinson, Boley and Leiphart finished in order ahead of the first Duquesne man.

Geneva College's team contested with the Mountaineers over the University course on November 8, as an added attraction to the "West Virginia Day" football game with Kansas State College, and the Varsity won this run, 16-39. Capt. Brand was again the winner, followed in order by Sanders, Robinson and Leiphart, with Douthit of Geneva fifth.

Carnegie Tech's team lost to the Varsity 35-20 in the third run of the season over the University five mile course on Nov. 15. Capt. Brand, in winning again, set a new course record of 29 minutes and 54 seconds. Leiphart won "by a nose" from Price of Tech in a driving finish for second place.

The Mountaineers found the flat five-mile course at Annapolis much different from their own hilly layout and were defeated by the Navy 22-33 at the Naval Academy on Nov. 21. Two Navy men—Hardman and Gibson—finished ahead of Capt. Brand, the first Varsity man to finish.

BRAND, Captain

1931 INDOOR SEASON

CALLAWAY

Although team scoring was unofficial in the third annual West Virginia Indoor Games, held in the Field house on February 14, the Varsity proved to be the leader in aggregate points.

The 1931 "Games" proved "bigger" and "better" than their predecessors, with several records broken and more outstanding stars from more institutions represented. Heading the list were such stars as Tolan of Michigan, O'Neil of Detroit, Al Kelly of Georgetown and Gordon Fraser of the Varsity, in the sprints; Egleston of Michigan and Callaway of the Varsity in the hurdles; Rekers and Meisinger of Penn State and Chamberlain of Michigan State in the mile; Slezak of Georgetown in the weights; Spencer of Geneva in the high jump; and Utterback of Pitt. in the broad jump; along with championship relay teams from Georgetown, Michigan, Penn State and Princeton.

Several records were broken and several were equalled. Egleston of Michigan set a new 70-yard low hurdle mark in beating Callaway by inches in the finals. He also tied the 70-yard high hurdle mark in winning that event from Callaway. Spencer of Geneva set a new Field house high jump record. Michigan's two-mile relay team set up another new Field house record, and Rekers and Chamberlain finished in a dead heat in the mile to establish a fifth new record. O'Neil of Detroit tied the 70-yard dash record for the Field house in winning his semi-final heat.

W. V. U. 78; PITT 28

In the only indoor dual meet of the season, the Varsity easily defeated the University of Pittsburgh, 78-28. "Runt" Callaway featured the meet as individual high scorer and in addition equalled the 70-yard low hurdle record by beating "Dick" Currence, a teammate, in the event. His time of 8 1-10 sec. equalled that of Egleston of Michigan, who had gained the title honor in the Indoor Games by beating Calloway to the tape by six inches. Capt. Charley Hill of the Varsity broke his own record of 42 ft. 7½ inches for the 35-pound weight when he won that event with a record toss of 44 ft. 4 inches.

After winning their two dual meets without much difficulty, the West Virginia University track and field athletes went ahead in the 1930 spring campaign and annexed the West Virginia and "Big Four" championships, finishing well ahead of the fields in both big meets.

When the Mountaineers walked off with the first annual West Virginia Intercollegiate without adequate competition, it was decided not to continue this meet until interest in track throughout the state mounted to warrant continuation of such an event. Likewise, with the completion of the fourth annual "Big Four" meet last spring, that championship event was discontinued, West Virginia and Pitt having been the only competing institutions which consistently supported strong teams.

As a natural consequence, the 1931 schedule for the Varsity did not include the West Virginia Intercollegiates or the "Big Four" meet, dual with Navy at Annapolis and Army at Morgantown having been scheduled in their stead. The 1931 schedule was made even more pretentious when the West Virginia squad sent representatives to the Penn Relays and the Ohio Relays, as well as the A. A. U. meet in Pittsburgh. None of the Mountaineer entries reached the finals in the Penn Relays, but Callaway, hurdler, Fraser, sprinter, and the Varsity sprint relay team all reached the finals in their respective events and made good showings. Capt Charles Hill won the triathlon weight contest from stars representing Ohio State, Indiana, Nebraska, Michigan, and other Western Conference schools represented in the Ohio Relays. At the Pittsburgh A. A. U. meet, the Mountaineer entries were the sensation of the meet. Mickey Brand won the mile run, with Zimmerman and Price, two teammates, finishing second and third.

George Devers won the three mile race, and John Clifford finished second in the quarter-mile.

The 1930 campaign was featured by Callaway's performances in the hurdles. In the "Big Four" meet he ran the 120-yard high hurdles in 15 sec. flat, a new "Big Four" and West Virginia University record. In that same meet, he ran the 220-yard low hurdles in 25 sec. flat, which was likewise a new "Big Four" and West Virginia University record. Marshall ("Little Sleepy") Glenn cleared the high jump at 6 ft. 5 8 in., to equal the "Big Four" record and set up a new West Virginia University mark.

In the West Virginia Intercollegiates, Cy Ruble cleared the pole vault at 12 ft. 4 in., for another West Virginia University record, and Hill's throw of 140 ft. 4 1 2 in., in the discus, was a fifth University record.

The Mountaineers started their 1931 season with an 85 to 50 victory over Geneva college, featured by Fraser's 10 sec. flat century, which tied the University record.

HARRY L. SAMUEL
Director

Since its establishment in 1928 the activities and scope of the Intra-mural department have grown by leaps and bounds. Previous to this time there had been no very extensive system of sports for those who were not trying out for varsity teams. The Inter-fraternity council had maintained a certain amount of athletic competition but this was limited only to members of that body, so that the student body as a whole did not profit greatly by it.

In 1928-'29 a system of competitive events for all men on the campus was organized by Mr. Harry L. Samuel, head of the intra-mural department. The system was organized so as to give an opportunity for non-fraternity as well as fraternity men to compete, thus spreading the benefits of physical education over the whole campus.

The second season of intra-mural sports was even more successful than the first, several new sports being added, and a greater number of men participating. The fraternity events were especially interesting, large crowds attending all of the finals in the various sports. The features of the year were the close races in the basketball, speedball, and track.

TAU BETA PI

WEST VIRGINIA ALPHA CHAPTER

Honorary Engineering Fraternity

Tau Beta Pi fraternity was founded at Lehigh University in 1885. It is the oldest and the most representative of the honorary engineering societies, and it is the only one at West Virginia University.

Its purpose is to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor on their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character, or by their attainments as alumni.

Distinguished scholarship is not considered the sole criterion, although it is the primary requisite for admission.

Alpha Chapter of West Virginia was formed from the local Theta Psi fraternity, and it was installed in 1922.

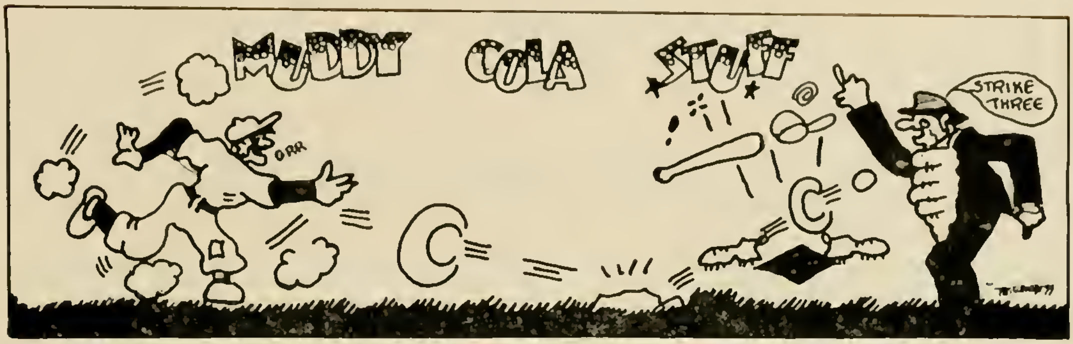
MUDDY COLA

The Editor wishes to express his apologies to the faculty members, students, and individuals, whose names appear in this section. These names were selected at random, and seem to give the section the necessary spice and punch to make it readable. To quote one humorist, "No one person does more for the betterment of mankind than the persons willing to carry the burden and honor of jokedom."

The Editor wishes to express his appreciation of the work done by the Art Editor, Watson Pritchard in compiling, writing, and drawing this Thirty-Second Muddy Cola Section. Collecting suitable material is very hard, especially material that is new and laughable. A very large part of the work done by him on this section, is original.

Each individual has an ideal under which he tries to follow faithfully. Children look to Lindbergh, and Walt Disney, the creator of "Micky Mouse." Sportsmen look to Babe Ruth and Knute Rockne. Writers look to Shakespeare and Voltaire. The Muddy Cola looks to Will Rogers and Donald Ogden Stewart, two of the best humorists in the world today. In the language of the latter, "While waiting at the station your time and money can be profitably spent, for instance: 11 weighing machines @ .01—.11; 3 weighing machines @ .05—.15; 1 weighing machine (out of order) .09; 17 slot machines (chocolate and gum) @ .01—.17. Total cost .50, unless, of course, you eat the chocolate".



We dedicate
this thirty-second Muddy Cola section to the same fellers,
the Fi Bater Capper.

Mrs. Vickers: "Dear, I saw the sweetest little hat downtown today."

Professor Vickers: "Put it on and let me see how you look in it."

— ANYWAY THE POPULATION IS STILL THE SAME —

"This is my car," exploded the irate tourist to the garage man, "and what I say about it goes—see?"

Just then a dirty-faced mechanic crawled out from under the dead machine and said: "Say, 'engine', mister."

This country has not gone dry. Coming home the other night a fire truck sped by with the siren going full blast. A gentleman who had been imbibing from the cup that queers, upon hearing the siren, gave chase. After running a block, he stopped. "T'ell with him!" he cried disgusted. "I'm not going to chase him any farther. He can keep his peanuts."

Junkman: "Any rags, paper, old iron?"
Dean Stone: "No, my wife's away."
Junkman: "Any bottles?"

June Browning: "You say you've been true to one man for ten years?"
Jean Crawford: "No—ten men for one year."

Madge: "So you are going to give Joe another chance?"
Maizie: "Yes, but I don't believe he'll kiss me this time either."

"What you need is electric baths."

"Nothing doing. I had an Uncle drowned that way up at Sing Sing."

Ike Lewis: "I went through hell for that girl."
S. P. E.: "So that's where you found her."

"Boy call me a taxi."
"All right, you're a taxi."

"How fast will your car go?"
"Ninety, if it's so inclined."
Are you familiar with college girls?
Yes, invariably.

The college boy's motto is, "Get thee behind me Satan and push."

Delt House Mother: "Young Brown is going to occupy the seat of applied electricity."
Howard Boggess: "I didn't think he would amount to anything. What school?"
Mrs. Cunningham: "No school. Sing Sing."

Mrs. Turner: "Who was the most unlucky woman in the world?"
Dr. Turner: "Eve. She couldn't throw up to Adam the better men she had known."

Mr. Joseph: "Good bye, son. Write to me often."
Gene: "That's mighty generous of you father."

Florist: "Shall I send a dozen American Beauties? 'Say it with flowers,' you know."
'Feets Martin: "Send a half dozen. I don't want to say too much."

How to tell a student from a professor: Ask him what "it" is, and if he says it's a pronoun, he's a professor.

"What do you see in dem guys, Bill and Fred?" said Gert, the gold digger.
"Lissen, girlie," replied Tenth Avenue Susie, "dere's gold in dem heels!"

My car is like twenty into one. It won't go.

THE FLAPPER'S PRAYER

I crave the lights that brightly shine,
Also the men and the sparkling wine.
I crave for fun without paying the price,
I want to be naughty and yet be nice;
I crave for the thrills of a long, close kiss,
I want the things that good girls miss;
I crave the heart and arms of a man
And yet stay single, if I can.
I've come to you now for advice
In how to be naughty and yet be nice,
I crave to do what other girls do;
Tease 'em, cuddle up, bill and coo,
Blacken my eyes and powder my nose,
Rouge my cheeks to look like a rose;
Tango a little and shimmy a lot,
Park my corset when the weather is hot;
Ride and swim, and golf and skate,
Take the fence instead of the gate;
Break all records—yes—but one,
And be good and true when the game is done.
I don't like the pepper but I do like the spice,
Oh, I want to be naughty and still be nice.

AND THE ANSWER

This advice, dear girl, is good and true,
You can't eat your cake and have it, too.
If you want the man and you want the wine,
Why someone must pay when you wine and dine.
The next must be but a longer kiss,
If you want the things that good girls miss.
You've got to be wiser than most girls, Sis.
So watch your step is my advice,
If you want to be naughty and still be nice.
Go to it kid, with powder and paint
To make you look like what you ain't;
Shimmy and dance to your heart's content,
Be hugged and kissed 'till your ribs are bent;
Park your corsets on a hickory limb,
But never, my dear, go in to swim,
Bathe if you will on the dewey green,
But you can't use mud and come out clean.
The game you'd play is a man's long suit,
Since Eve first nibbled on forbidden fruit.
Whatever you get you must pay the price;
You can't be naughty and still be nice.

"Whata you say, Gal, slip us a kiss."
"Not on your tintype!"
"Aw, come on—didn't I buy you a soda?"
"You win, but I'm glad you didn't take me to a show."

MINUTES OF AN INTERFRATERNITY MEETING OF 1931

Meeting opened by everyone butting against the door until it caved in. After wrestling, some of the members sat in chairs while others stayed on the floor. Bother Smoot asked if the Sigma Chis would keep out of the K. A. cornfield, as they were giving a party over the week-end. Brother Neff denied the accusation, and reminded Brother Smoot that he had seen Brother Malcolm Lowe carrying a lot of it over to the Phi Psi House. Brother 'Feets' Martin calls for a vote as to who did swipe the corn; the Hill Clique wins the vote 10 to 6 and Brother Lowe is suspended. Brother Boggess advises the Council to take a keener interest in athletics, he being the only athlete in the Council. Brother Bob Ashworth pulls a chair from beneath the chairman. Brother Martin retaliated by kicking him on the shin. Brother Watkins got sore at Brother Slim Snyder and swung at his jaw but hit Brother Ashworth, who countered with a left jab to the stomach. By this time the fighting was general and the meeting was not resumed until some of the brothers had gone outside to have it out. Everyone returned but Brother Snyder. Next the song, "Down on the Farm." Brother Welch weeps during the song. Brother Fitro remarks of the growing social prestige of the T. K. E., having been invited to the Alpha Phi tea. Brother Martin throws the constitution at Brother Fitro, which misses and hits Brother Largent, who is just entering and punching the time clock. Brother Welch moves that they have a lying contest. The biggest lie to be awarded a dog; the worst to be awarded dismissal from the meeting. Brother Martin is selected for the first lie. Brother Martin says, "I was crossing the bridge when I saw the train coming. I didn't dare jump, as I didn't know how high the bridge was, and so I hung down between the ties. After the train had passed over, I hadn't the strength to pull myself back up, and so I had to hang there until morning. The next morning I looked down and there the ground was, only a foot away. Well sir, that made me so mad that I hung there until noon." After 'Feets' left the meeting Brother Snyder was called upon. Brother Snyder: "The Sigma Nu is a good fraternity, in fact it is the best on the campus." All of the brothers: "Give him the dog." Brother Lowe asks if someone will come down to the house to play bridge with him. After intense silence Brother Fitro said that he knew an Alpha Phi, and through her he could probably arrange some dates, which would be a big social up. Some of the brothers said that they'd rather not get the "up" that way. Brother Lowe was telling the boys how to get along without him next year, when he broke into tears. He was thinking of the loss to the Hill Clique. Here the meeting was adjourned to take care of Brother Snyder, who had recovered and commenced to play on his guitar downstairs.

HAVE YOU ever considered that in a few years usefulness of electricity in every-day life has increased a thousandfold? Little more than a decade ago electric lights at a few widely-separated places in the home represented the total utility of electricity.

TODAY there is scarcely a task in the home, office, store or industrial plant that electricity does not do at reasonable rates. While the uses of electricity have increased miraculously, figures reveal a constant reduction in its cost. In other words, as it became more valuable to men's needs, electricity, unlike every other commodity, became easier to obtain at a lower price.

"We Value Your Friendship As We Do Your Patronage"

A PROPER CALL

PROMPTLY at the time appointed you should arrive at the house where the young lady is staying. In answer to your ring a German police dog will begin to bark furiously inside the house, and a maid will finally come to the door. Removing your hat and one glove, you say, "Is Miss Doe home?" The maid replies, "Yass, ay tank so." You give her your card and the dog rushes out and bites you on either the right or left leg. You are then ushered into a room in which is seated an old man with a long white beard. He is fast asleep. "Dot's grampaw," says the maid, to which you reply, "Oh." She retires, leaving you alone with grampaw. After a while he opens his eyes and stares at you for a few minutes. He then says, "Did the dog bite you?" You answer, "Yes, sir." Grampaw then says, "He bites everybody," and goes back to sleep. Reassured, you light a cigaret. A little boy and girl then come to the door, and, after examining you carefully for several minutes, they burst into giggling laughter and run away. You feel to see if you have forgotten to put on a necktie. A severe looking old lady then enters the room. You rise and bow. "I am Miss Doe's grandmother. Some one has been smoking in here," she says, and sits down opposite you. Her remark is not, however, a hint for a cigaret and you should not make the mistake of saying, "I've only got Fatimas, but if you care to try one———." It should be your aim to seek to impress yourself favorably upon every member of the young lady's family. Try to engage the grandmother in conversation, taking care to select subjects in which you feel she would be interested. Conversation is largely the art of "playing up" to the other person's favorite subject. In this case, for example, it would be a mistake to say to Miss Doe's grandmother, "Have you ever tried making synthetic gin?" or "Do you think any one will ever lick Dempsey?" A more experienced person, and some one who had studied the hobbies of old people, would probably begin by remarking, "Well, I see that Jeremiah Smith died of cancer Thursday," or "That was a lovely burial they gave Mrs. Watts, wasn't it?" If you are tactful, you should win the old lady's favor completely, so that before long she will tell you all about her rheumatism and what grampaw can and cannot eat.

Finally Miss Doe arrives. Her first words are, "Have you been waiting long? Hilda didn't tell me you were here," to which you reply, "No—I just arrived." She then says, "Shall we go in the drawing-room?" The answer to this is, "For God's sake yes!" In a few minutes you find yourself alone in the drawing-room with the lady of your choice and the courtship proper can begin.

The best way to proceed is gradually to bring the conversation around to the subject of the "modern girl". After your preliminary remarks about tonsils and adenoids have been thoroughly exhausted, you should suddenly say, "Well, I don't think girls—nice girls—are really that way." She replies, of course, "What way?" You answer, "Oh, the way they are in these modern novels. This 'petting,' for instance." She says, "What 'petting'?" You walk over and sit down on the sofa beside her. "Oh," you say, "these novelists make me sick—they seem to think that in our generation every time a young man and woman are left alone on a lounge together, they haven't a thing better to do than put out the light and 'pet'. It's disgusting, isn't it?" "Isn't it?" she agrees and reaching over she accidently pulls the lamp cord, which puts out the light.

On your first visit you should not stay after 12:30.

They were seated at a table in a night club. Suddenly there was a loud crash.

The Treasury Department is reported to have received the following letter:

"I have received your application, but as I already belong to several good orders I do not care to join your income tax at this time."

The following gem was submitted in an English for foreigners' class:

"What a wonderful bird the frog are! When he stand, he sit almost. When he hop he fly almost. He ain't got no sense hardly. He ain't got no tail hardly either. When he sit, he sit on what he ain't got almost."

The absent-minded professor went to the Citizen's Training Camp and shot himself one night when on guard duty. He forgot the password.

"Ho! ho! ho!" bellowed the farmer, and immediately afterwards his three sons went to work in the potato field.

"Meet Mr. Radimovichesse. The boy's going to make a name for himself."

"I wonder," said Mrs. Havener, the Alpha Xi House Mother, "what has become of the girl who would drop her eyes, lift her face and say, 'You'll have to ask Papa'?"

"She has a daughter," said Frances Ebling, "who says, 'Step on 'er kid, the old man's gaining on us.' "

Year after year we extend our best wishes to the graduating classes as they go out from the University, but we remain to constantly serve those who come after, as we have served their predecessors with so much satisfaction to them and genuine pleasure to ourselves.

A swimmer starts across a stream which is 450 yards wide. He swims for five minutes at the rate of three miles per hour, and for three minutes at the rate of four miles per hour. He then reaches the other bank, where he sees a young lady five feet ten inches tall, walking around a tree, in a circle the circumference of which is forty-two yards.

A. What is the diameter of the circle?

B. How fast is the current flowing in the stream?

C. At what point would the swimmer land if there were no current in the stream?

D. At what point does the swimmer actually land?

E. But suppose that he has no bathing suit on?

Judge: "Were you ever arrested before?"

Tough: "Now, honest, Judge, do I look like a bud just makin' me Daboo?"

"Should a father of 55 marry again?"

"No, that's enough children for any man."

Host (appearing on a darkened veranda): "Are you young folks all enjoying yourselves?"

(Absolute silence.)

Host (returning indoors): "That's fine."

Divorce Court Judge: "Upon what grounds are you applying for a divorce, Mr. Brown?"

Mr. Brown: "Extravagance, Your Honor."

Judge: "How's that?"

Mr. Brown: "Well, sir, my wife continued to buy ice after I bought a Frigidaire."

A Scotchman was engaged in an argument with the conductor on a street car. It seems the Scotchman believed the fare was five cents and the conductor insisted it was a dime. After a long drawn argument, the conductor became disgusted, and, seizing the Scotchman's suitcase, threw it off just as the car was passing over a bridge which crossed a small stream. The suitcase landed with a loud splash. "Mon," cried the Scotchman, "isn't it enough for you to overcharge me without drowning my little boy?"

CORRECT BEHAVIOR ON A PICNIC

A young man, for example, is often asked by a young lady to accompany her on a "family picnic". To this invitation he should, after some consideration, reply either "Yes" or "No", and if the former, he should present himself at the young lady's house promptly on the day set for the affair (usually Sunday).

A "family picnic" generally consists of a Buick, a father, a mother, a daughter, a small son, beef loaf, lettuce sandwiches, a young man (you), two blow-outs, one spare tire, and Aunt Florence.

The father drives with his small boy beside him; in the rear are the mother, the daughter, the thermos bottles, the lunch baskets and you. As you take your seat you must remember that is a distinct evidence of bad breeding to show in any way that you are conscious of the fact that the car has been standing, for the last hour and forty-four minutes in the hot July sun.

"We're off!" cries the father, pressing his foot on the self-starting pedal. Thirty minutes later you roll away from the curb and the picnic has begun. The intervening time has, of course, been profitably spent by you in walking to the nearest garage for two new spark-plugs.

It should be your duty, as guest, to see that the conversation in the rear seat is not allowed to lag. "It's a great day," you remark, as the car speeds along. "I think it's going to rain," replies Aunt Florence. "Not too fast, Will!" says mother. "Mother!" says the daughter.

Ten minutes later you again remark, "My, what a wonderful day!" "Those clouds are gathering in the west," says Aunt Florence, "I think we had better put the top up." "I think this is the wrong road," says mother. "Dear, I know what I'm doing," replies father.

The secret of good conversation lies in discovering the "hobby" of the person with whom one is conversing, and a good talker always throws out a couple of "feelers" in order to find out the things in which his partner is most interested. You should, therefore, next says to mother, "Don't you think this is a glorious day for a picnic?" to which she will reply, "Well, I'm sure this is the wrong road. Hadn't we better ask?" The husband will answer nothing, but Aunt Florence will murmur, "I think I felt a drop of rain, Will. If you don't put up the top now, we'll all be drenched."

The husband will then stop the car, and you and he will proceed to put the top up. In doing this, it is customary for the guest to get the second and third fingers of his right hand so severely pinched that he cannot use the hand for several days. As soon as the top is up and the rain curtains are in place the sun will come out and you can get out at once and put the top down, taking care this time to ruin two fingers of the left hand.

No good conversationalist confines himself exclusively to one subject, and when you are once more "under way" you should remark to the mother, "I think that motoring is great fun, don't you, Mrs. Caldwell?" Her answer will be, "I wish you wouldn't drive so fast!" You should then smile and say to Aunt Florence, "Don't you think that motoring is great fun, Mrs. Lockwood?" As she is about to reply, the left rear tire will blow out with a loud noise and the car will come to a bumping stop.

The etiquette of changing a tire is fairly simple. As soon as the "puncture" occurs one should at once remark, "Is there anything I can do?" This request should be repeated from time to time, always taking care, however, that no one takes it at all seriously. The real duty of a young man who is "guest" on a motor trip on which a "blow-out" occurs is, of course, to keep the ladies of the party amused during the delay. This can be done by any of the conventional methods, such as card tricks, handsprings, and other feats of athletic ability, or making funny jokes about the host who is at work on the tire.

When the damage is repaired and the car is once more speeding along leaving behind it mile after mile of dusty road as well as father's best "jack" and a set of tire tools, the small boy will suddenly remark, "I'm hungry." His father will then reply, "We'll be there at a fine place to eat in ten minutes." Thirty minutes later mother will remark, "Will, that looks like a good place for a picnic over there." The father will reply, "No—we're coming to a wonderful place—just trust me, Mary!" Twenty minutes later Aunt Florence will say, "Will, I think that grove over there would be fine for our lunch," to which the husband will reply, "We're almost at the place I know about—it's ideal for a picnic." Forty minutes after this, father will stop the car and point to a clump of trees. "There," he will say, "what do you think of that?" "Oh, we can't eat there!" will be the answer of mother, daughter and Aunt Florence. "Drive on a bit further—I think I know a place."

Three hours and thirty minutes later (i. e., four hours past your normal lunch hour) there will be another puncture and as the car stops beside a wheatfield it will begin to rain, and the daughter will sigh, "Well, we might as well eat here." The "picnic" will then be held in the car, and nothing really quite carries one back to nature and primeval man as does warm lemonade and a lettuce sandwich in a Buick with the top up and the side curtains on.

After lunch it will be time to return home, and after you and father have ruined your clothes repairing the puncture, the merry party will proceed on its way. The next morning, if you haven't caught pneumonia, you will be able to go to your work greatly refreshed by your day's outing in the lap of old Mother Nature.
